DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' response dated 07/03/2008 has been received and entered. Claims 1, 5, 13 and 16-21 are remain pending in the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 5, 13 and 16-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicants' admitted prior art (APA), figures 1-2, in view of Sato, US 2006/0097380 A1.

Regarding the above claims, APA discloses a liquid crystal module (100) comprising a glass substrate (104) having a display area (120) and a peripheral area (130), a gate driver chip (108), a source driver chip (106); wherein the gate/source driver chip(s) are directly mounted on the glass substrate (see figure 2) with an anisotropic conductive film (110).

APA, however, do not explicitly disclose the thickness of the gate/source driver chip is less than 0.3mm. Sato does disclose a gate/source driver chip (IC chip 9) having a thickness of 0.140mm (paragraph [0067], line 12). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention was made to employ a gate/source driver chip having a thickness less than 0.3mm as shown by Sato in order to make a portable display since the IC chip thickness can be reduced as thin as less than 0.3mm.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 07/03/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants contend that the purpose for fabricating driver chips of Sato's IC thickness is significantly different from that of the present invention. It should be noted that a method of forming a device is not germane to the issue of patentability of the device itself. Therefore, the difference purpose during a manufacturing a chip would not be a matter in the device claim itself.

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., the driver chip of the present invention is thinned to reduce the stress created between the chip and the glass substrate) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Furthermore, in response to applicant's argument that Sato does not teach, suggest or in any way provide proper motivation to fabricate a semiconductor module, the fact that applicant has recognized another advantage which would flow naturally from following the suggestion of the prior art cannot be the basis for patentability when the differences would otherwise be obvious. See Ex parte Obiaya, 227 USPQ 58, 60 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1985).

Accordingly, the rejection of the above claims stand.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
